

CBS PhD Students & Graduate Received Recognition from the World's Prestigious Universities

Congratulations to the following students and graduates of the Research Postgraduate Programme of the Department of Chinese & Bilingual Studies (CBS) on receiving postdoctoral level (or similar) scholarship awarded by the world's prestigious Universities! The Department including Prof. Chu-ren Huang, supervisor of the awardees, is very proud that our PhD students and graduates are extremely well trained and their research abilities are well recognized internationally.

Mr. Enrico Santus (jointly supervised by Prof. Lu Qin, Department of Computing) has just been awarded a two year SUTD-MIT postdoctoral fellowship. He will spend one year each at Singapore University of Technology and Design (SUTD), Singapore and Massachusetts Institute of Technology (MIT), USA.

Mr. Karl Neergaard has been awarded an Ernst March-Grant (Eurasia-Pacific Uninet) for attachment at University of Vienna by the Austrian Agency for International Cooperation in Education & Research (OeAD-GmbH), Centre for International Cooperation and Mobility (ICM).

Dr. Hongzhi Xu, a recent PhD graduate of CBS, is now in his second year of postdoctoral fellowship at the University of Pennsylvania, USA.

In the past 20 years, CBS's research postgraduate programme has nurtured many exceptional PhD and MPhil students who aspire to become researchers or scholars capable of conducting independent and original research, and producing research findings that are significant within their chosen field of specialization. Many of our graduates have held important teaching/research positions in different well-recognized universities and institutions, and have continuously moved upward in their careers since graduation.
